

Initial VET provision for Cultural Development

Magdalini Remoundou, IEK AKMI

The specific topic concerns the educational process which the AKMI Educational Organisation follows regarding the Cultural and Communication studies.

During the forty years of the educational experience the AKMI offers programme of studies in the following Cultural and Media disciplines:

- Acting
- Film and TV Directing
- Film & TV Editing
- Sound Engineering-
- Camera and Lighting Studies
- Music Technology
- Production Design/ Set& Costumes
- Screen Writing
- Makeup Artist
- Film & TV Production
- Journalism
- Sports Journalism

The graduates of the programmes above, comprise the majority of the successful employees in the Audiovisual and Media market for the last 30 years. The AKMI School of Culture and Communication studies is well known for the academic quality in the audio-visual industry. Consequently, this School is the first choice of the enterprises in terms of seeking staff.

The thesis projects (short film) of the Film Directing and Music Technology graduates have won 1st prizes and awards in local and international Film Festivals. This academic tradition is been continuing and is the result of the efforts the AKMI teaching and staff is putting.

The academic curriculum and the successful history of the AKMI Educational Organisation will be included in the presentation, as well.